How does the Chairman address the Chief Engineer in the matter without a Govt.-? I have noticed that this practice has come into vogue ever since the appointment of a whole-time Engineer Chairman. Let me see the Govt.-Engrs. regulations regarding the relationship of the Chief Engineer with the City Improvement Trust Board. I never ask have accorded sanction to the work in question but it has been for its so-called urgency that file will be re-submitted to me on my return to Head-Qrs.

Report to accompany the estimate for forming a platform opposite the Zoo for parking carriages.

The western entrance into the Zoo is an important junction of six roads including the passage into it. The place is important not so much for the number of roads as for the frequency with which it is visited in connection with the Zoological Garden. It is badly in need of a stand for carriages and motor cars.

For supplying this want it is --- proposed to construct a platform of earth of sufficient area in front of the gate and providing it with an ornamental parapet wall ending with two parallel roads from the west.

A slope of 1 to 1. proposed to be given to the earth work and it will be turfed.

A small area of open space is also available at the back of the railing if more number of carriages are to be parked. For reserving this area for future a small road is opened for giving access to the houses as marked in red.
